Description

TDF has decided to fund certain AskBot improvements. This task is to coordinate which ones to fund next.

1) per-language related questions — 2h

7) better facility to deal with the duplicates — 20h
   when you mark question as duplicate there will be a UI to find duplicate questions and mark them.
   Forbid asking questions with exact duplicate titles.

12, 13) the same issue + many other string settings are not localizable — 20h make string-type settings localizable. The UI will allow entry of string for each enabled language if the site is multilingual.

14 - 16) are related issues (50h total)
   The solution is to allow users have one profile per language and migrate all user profile info into these language settings.
   14) make user status separate for each localized instance
       -- allow users to have one profile per language.
   15) make user list show per language
   16) karma per localization

17) list tags per localization — 10h

18) document how to create new localizations — 1h

* question NEEDINFO tag / status (#687)
  * Generalized mechanism for common question-modifying 'actions' in Askbot (#690)
  * Original question author not displayed for wiki-style question (#700)
  * mark the fields on the profile page as not-to-be-indexed by search-engines
  * verify proper sitemap with Google Webmaster Tools

Poked Evgeny again. Some tasks will surely not be finished in Q4, so postponing to Q1. Nothing really urgent, most critical things have been implemented already.

Shifting to Alex to oversee this
Alex, we do not have further budget assigned yet for outstanding items, so let's talk through this in one of the next calls Basically, you should wear the hat on feature implementations needed and discuss with the budget holders, plus oversee bug fixing like you just did :)

Some further proposal:

I didn't know where to place this suggestion on the Redmine page but I recently experienced a problem with LibreOffice Ask: When I submit a post and it gets rejected because it's a duplicate. In the email that gets sent to me, it should contain a link to the post that it is a duplicate of. I asked the question because I don't know the answer (Or if I don't know which search terms to use to find my answer). If I was a super beginner user of Libreoffice I would be very unhappy receiving that email.

I can't find the answer because the search terms that I use are probably not the ones I should be using.

I search for "Libreoffice extension difference macro library" and "libreoffice extension vs macro library" which don't give me the answer.

In that rejection email it should have a link the post it was a duplicate of.
14-16 carried out, rest pending board feedback/budget approval

- Target version changed from Q2/2016 to Qlater

- Assignee changed from Alexander Werner to Florian Effenberger

- Status changed from Feedback to Closed

Lots of stuff implemented, no additional budget for AskBot this year, so closing this meta-ticket now
