

Marketing - Feature #693

Event Opportunity: We've been invited to the Circumvention Tech Festival in Valencia, Spain (1-6 March, 2015)

2014-10-02 15:41 - Robinson Tryon

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Status: New | Start date: |
| Priority: Normal | Due date: |
| Assignee: | % Done: 0% |
| Category: | |
| Target version: | |
| Description "The Circumvention Tech Festival (CTFestival) gathers the community fighting censorship and surveillance for a week of conferences, workshops, hackathons, and social gatherings, featuring many of the Internet Freedom community's flagship events." Booths are free for non-profits, and they'd love to see us there. They're expecting about 300-500 people. Contact info is on the website, or I (Robinson) can make introductions, if you like. Websites: http://www.circumventionfestival.org/ http://www.circumventionfestival.es/ | |